SAATHI TEACHERS PROGRAMME

JULY-AUGUST

Each month, the Saathi Teachers Programme unveils captivating stories and programme updates. We spotlight the remarkable achievements of our Saathis and delve into their impactful community contributions.

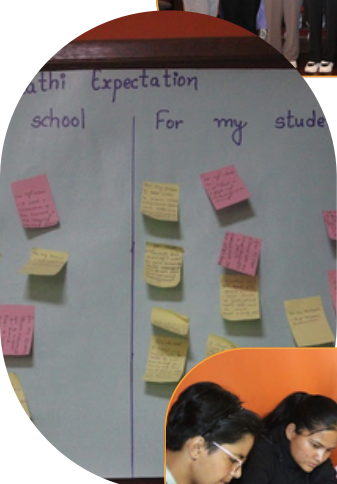

QUARTERLY TRAINING

Saathi Teachers Programme conducted its first quarterly training from 18th July to 20th July. The training spanned three days, with various sessions at Kings College, Bijulibazar.

This training highlights our commitment to helping Saathi teachers continuously give their best inside the classroom. The training covered important tools, techniques, and insights they needed for their teaching journey. It wasn't just about personal growth but also about sharing experiences, ideas, and teaching methods to learn from each other. The training included highlighting the great achievements of Saathi Teachers, teaching them about health and cleanliness, giving them useful teaching tools, encouraging student participation, and exploring personal sources of strength.

Throughout the training, Saathi teachers were re-energised and gained new knowledge, insights, and strategies, enhancing their confidence and capabilities for their teaching journey ahead.

This quarterly training marks a pivotal chapter in our Saathi Teachers' programme, reflecting our unwavering commitment to nurturing educational excellence. It is a tribute to dedicated teachers who firmly believe in the transformative power of quality education.

CU-VOLUNTEER

We are excited to welcome the Cambridge University (CU HELP) volunteers for this Summer to support the Saathi Teachers Programme. Their presence marks a significant step towards supporting the Saathi Teachers Programme, as they collaborate closely with Saathi teachers in the schools where Saathi Teachers Programme works. Annually, enthusiastic volunteers from Cambridge University join us, dedicating 4-5 weeks to work within schools. Throughout this month, they wholeheartedly engage in the classroom, collaborating seamlessly with Saathi teachers and school administrations.

From the 6th of August, volunteers were placed in the four schools where they will be teaching for the next 4 weeks. These schools are spread across the Panchpokhari Rural Municipality cluster. Working in close partnership with school administrations and Saathi teachers, they jointly contribute their efforts. This partnership will nurture mutual growth and promises a more radiant educational horizon. Upon arrival, the school community warmly embraced the volunteers, reflecting their genuine enthusiasm for this collaborative venture. As the programme progresses, we anticipate building upon these invaluable experiences, propelling us toward a future of educational excellence.

EXTRA CLASSES

Even during school vacations, Saathi teachers facilitate their students' learning journey. Recognising that education should never come to a halt, the Saathi teachers from the Abukhaireni cluster went the extra mile by conducting additional classes throughout the summer break.

At Shree Chandidevi Basic School in Tanahu, Saathi teachers Bishal Ale Magar and Jay Baidhakota organised a fun vacation support class. They had exciting activities and review sessions. In another school, Chhimkeshwori Secondary School in Ward no-4, Bhange, Saathi teachers Ritu Tamang and Sarita Lama led a lively program for students in grades 1 to 5. They simultaneously energised yoga, art, craft, and important catch-up classes. Meanwhile, at Chandrodaya Basic School in Ward no-1, Samastipur, Saathi teachers Sunita Sherchan and Sanjita Shrestha didn't just teach Math and English but also provided extra classes to help their students in other activities.
